(d) A statement is laid on the Table of the House (see below)

(e) to (h) Gem and Jewellery is a thrust sector of our exports. Govt. has provided facilities, under various schemes specified in Chapter VIII of the Export-Import Policy, for the duty free import of rough diamonds precious metals, rough coloured gemstones and other raw materials either in advance with an export obligation or as replenishment after exports. Participation in exhibitions abroad and exchange of business delegations is encouraged. Exporters of gem and Jewellery enjoy the same benefits as exporters in other sectors.

The Govt. have taken many steps for enncouraging the development of the Industry and boost the exports from this sector. In order to facilitate technological upgradation of the industry import of a wide range of items of machinery, equipment and tools required for the gem and jewellery trade at a concessional duty of 25% is allowed to the registered exporters of gem and jewellery and cooperative societies of goldsmiths and artisans. The Govt. also encourages design and product development through Jewellery Product Development Centres and training of artisans through the Indian Diamond Institute.
